I am shocked to hear of the amount of proposed planning for housing in Guiseley. My understanding is the above mentioned sites are green belt land which if this is the case surely LCC are breaching green belt policies? Whoever is proposing the potential new builds obviously does not live in Guiseley or even have to drive through or go to Guiseley at all. As if they did they would realise that the main road (A65) already clearly can not handle the amount of traffic. If the proposed builds go ahead Queensway would also be a bottle neck, and Park Road and Silverdale Road just don't stand a chance. On top of the extra volume of traffic there is also the schools, doctors, dentists, train commuters and parking to consider. I have 2 children aged 6 and 8 will Guiseley High School have room for them. Will the local parks, and recreational activities be able to handle the influx of all the new people. I think we all know that the answer is no. Guiseley is already an extremely busy place to live and all the additional building is just going to spoil the place where we call home.

Please consider the above points as we are not just talking about a couple of houses we are potentially talking about hundreds!

Thanks in advance

Dan Wassell,
