Comments relate to Site Reference (HGX - XXX)

I am writing in response to the Leeds city Council major new plans for the city of Leeds which includes, Horsforth, Rawdon and Guisley know as Airebrough.

I am concerned that the further increased housing developments will put more pressure on existing services like Schools, GP practices and roads.

The character of Rawdon village will totally change and end up merging into Horsforth.

The recent so called road improvements at Horsforth roundabout has not helped traffic flow and as probably made the situation worse and the council have been unable to grasp and deal with the real problems. The A65 needs a dual carriage way as it is a vital link into Leeds or a Aire valley trunk road should be considered the Pudsey - Dishforth road scheme should looked at and be considered again the proposed Airport link road will again attract more traffic on to already congested area.

The priority should be for Brown field sites to be developed first and also the question of empty housing that needs addressing.

Kind Regards

John Webster
