Dear sir/madam,

Lately I have heard that you are proposing to build houses in Rawdon and Horsforth. We do not agree and we think it's a bad idea. You are planing to build on greenbelt but Brownfield is much better.

When building houses, consider nature. If you build a house you could have built on an animal's home. That is what you're doing. The land that you're building on is a home to some wonderful wildlife. There are deer, bats, lapwing, sparrow hawk and tawny owl (HG-3-4) .

If you build lots of houses, pollution will become a bigger problem in Rawdon and its local areas. litter will cover the streets like paint. Wildlife will become homeless. Could you bear all this? It's a horrible thing is pollution.

The lovely views will transform into a waste land. If Rawdon becomes covered in houses, people will turn obese with nowhere to jog, walk or keep fit. Obesity will become a huge problem in the UK.

When you build more houses more people will come to Rawdon and more people means more cars. When there are lots of cars there's lots of traffic. With the traffic their will be more accidents ,therefore more injuries. If you build all these houses there will not be enough shops and schools for the people. We really hope you understand what our point is so goodbye.
